

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	v
Foreword	vii
List of Tables and Diagrams	xi

Chapter 1.

Rethinking the New York Convention	1
-------------------------------------------------	---

Chapter 2.

The New York Convention and Darwinian Legal Theory	9
-----------------------------------------------------------------	---

1. Darwinian Evolutionary Theory	9
2. Legal Evolutionary Theory	13
3. The Application of Darwinian Theory in the Legal Sphere	21
4. The New York Convention and Darwinian Evolutionary Theory	28
4.1. The Origin of Arbitration and Core Memetic Code	29
4.2. The Hostility towards Arbitration by Courts in Common Law Jurisdictions	33
4.3. The Long Journey to the New York Convention	37
The Geneva Protocol of 1923	38
The Geneva Convention of 1927	40
The New York Convention of 1958	41
4.4. Mutation and the New York Convention	47
European Convention on International Commercial Arbitration of 1961	48
Brussels Convention on Jurisdiction and the Enforcement of Judgments in Civil and Commercial Matters of 1968	49
Moscow Convention of 1972	49
Inter-American Convention on International Commercial Arbitration (Panama Convention of 1975)	50
Riyadh Arab Agreement on Judicial Cooperation of 1977	51
Amman Arab Convention on Commercial Arbitration of 1987 ..	52
The Model Law	53
5. Environmental Changes and the New York Convention	54
5.1. Globalisation and its Impact on Arbitration Law	54

5.1.2.	Sovereignty and De-nationalisation	62
5.1.3.	Harmonisation of Arbitration Law	66
5.2.	New York Convention and New Technology	69
5.2.1.	New Technology, Commerce and Law	70
5.2.2.	New Technology and E-based Arbitration	71
5.2.3.	Impact of New Technologies on the New York Convention	72
6.	New Direction of the New York Convention	81

Chapter 3.

Enforcement of Annulled Awards, Delocalisation and Game Theory 83

1.	From Hilmarton to Chromalloy : Case Law Study	84
1.1.	Hilmarton Saga in France	84
1.2.	Chromalloy Case : a Dilemma	86
1.3.	Why are Hilmarton and Chromalloy Special?	90
2.	Articles V and VII of the New York Convention	92
3.	Legal Nature of an Annulled Award	101
4.	Game Theory and Its Application	105
4.1.	Prisoner's Dilemma and Strategic Behaviour	105
4.2.	Race to the Bottom in Regulatory Contexts – Some Examples Involving States	107
5.	Game Theory, Enforcement of Annulled Awards and the New York Convention	113
5.1.	Legitimate Expectations of Private Parties in Arbitration	120
5.2.	Public Interests of Nations in Enforcing Annulled Awards	125
5.3.	Dual Control Mechanism, Delocalisation and Judicial Competition	132
5.4.	Tensions between Rendition and Enforcement Forums and Gaming Settings	141
6.	“Second Look” at the New York Convention	154
6.1.	Goals of the New York Convention	154
6.2.	Limits for Discounting Annulment under the New York Convention	156
7.	Upgrading the New York Convention – Preliminary Thoughts	158

Chapter 4.

Lex Mercatoria* and the New York Convention 163

1.	Conceptualisation of Lex Mercatoria	163
2.	Evolution of Lex Mercatoria : A Historical Perspective	165
2.1.	Medieval Law Merchant and Self-Regulation of Commerce	166

	Mercatoria	170
3.	The Nature of Lex Mercatoria in the Legal Realm.	175
3.1.	Relationship between Lex Mercatoria and National Laws.	176
3.2.	Lex Mercatoria : Effective Tool to Fill Gaps in Commercial Contracts?	179
3.3.	Lex Mercatoria and Principles of Good Faith and Fairness	182
3.4.	Lex Mercatoria and Legal Process	183
3.4.1.	Uniformity and Predictability of the Proceedings	184
3.4.2.	Judicial Review of the Court.	185
4.	Lex Mercatoria and International Commercial Arbitration	186
4.1.	Inherent Features of Arbitration and Lex Mercatoria	186
4.2.	Necessity of Arbitrators' Discretion	189
4.3.	Recognition of Lex Mercatoria in Major Jurisdictions.	190
4.3.1.	England and Other Common Law Jurisdictions.	190
4.3.2.	France and Other Continental European Countries	194
4.3.3.	The United States	198
5.	Revival of Lex Mercatoria and International Commercial Arbitration	200
5.1.	Lex Mercatoria and Globalisation: An Evolutionary Perspective.	200
5.2.	Unification of Commercial Law and Rise of "Soft Law"	208
5.3.	Infrastructure of Lex Mercatoria and Arbitration	215
5.4.	Commercial Justification of Lex Mercatoria in the Commercial World	219
5.5.	Positivist Rhetoric and Jurisprudential Justification of Lex Mercatoria in a Globalised Period	223
6.	New Lex Mercatoria and Neo-New York Convention.	227

Chapter 5.

Public Policy and the New York Convention. 231

1.	Concept and Practice of Public Policy.	232
1.1.	Arbitrability and Public Policy.	232
1.2.	Public Policy in Article V(2)(b) of the New York Convention.	238
2.	Judicial Approaches to Public Policy	240
2.1.	Substantive Public Policy versus Procedural Public Policy	241
2.2.	Domestic Public Policy versus International Public Policy	245
2.3.	Prescriptive Public Policy versus Normative Public Policy	256
3.	Normative Public Policy in the Gaming Context	264
3.1.	Normative Public Policy – Efficiency-centred Approach to Public Policy	265
3.1.1.	Legislatures	268
3.1.2.	Courts.	270

Arbitrators	2/4
3.2. Voice or Exit as a Potential Solution to Inefficient Public Policy .	278
3.3. Jurisdictional Competition as an Alternative to Formulate Efficient Public Policy	280
3.4. Cooperation among States to Formulate Efficient Public Policy .	284
4. Construction of Normative Public Policy in International Arbitration .	286
4.1. Impediments to Adoption of a “Federalism” Court	286
4.2. Global Legislation.	289
5. Public Policy, Rule of Law and Globalisation	293
5.1. Legal Rationality, Rights Hypothesis and Predictability	294
5.1.1. The Idea of Rights.	294
5.1.2. The Notion of Predictability	296
5.2. Legal Order and Transplant	299
6. Harmonisation of Public Policy Rules and International Law-making Process	303
7. Summary	308

Chapter 6.

Neo-New York Convention	311
1. Four Dilemmas of the New York Convention	311
1.1. Dilemma of the Past, Present and Future of the New York Convention	311
1.2. Dilemma of Tensions between Rendition and Enforcing Forums	312
1.3. Dilemma of Hard Law, Soft Law and Lex Mercatoria	314
1.4. Dilemma of Public Policy and Party Autonomy	315
2. Two “New” Theories	316
2.1. Game Theory and Judicial Competition	316
2.2. Darwinian Theory and Evolution of Law	317
3. One Core Question – Improving the New York Convention in the Globalised World in the 21st Century	318
4. How to Reform the New York Convention?	321
Bibliography	329