PREFACE

This book arises out of a research project that was very generously funded by the European Commission under the Civil Justice Action programme – grant JUST/2013/JCIV/AG/4631. We thank the European Commission for their funding.

The events of 23 June 2016 may cast a long shadow but we hope that they do not dim unduly the prospects for further European scientific research and cooperation.

This book is very much a team effort led by Gerard McCormack at the University of Leeds in the UK and including Reinhard Bork at the University of Hamburg in Germany, Laura Carballo Piñeiro and Marta Carballo Fidalgo at the University of Santiago de Compostela in Galicia, Spain, Renato Mangano at the University of Palermo in Italy and last, but certainly not least, Tibor Tajti at the Central European University, Budapest, Hungary.

The book aims to analyse critically the provisions governing rights in rem (security rights) and transactional avoidance in the European Insolvency Regulation – now Regulation 2015/848 – and to address whether there is scope for reform of the law. Security rights are essentially rights over property intended to secure payment of a debt or other obligation. They are of fundamental importance to the granting of credit and are generally considered to increase the availability and lower the costs of credit with concomitant benefits for both debtors and the overall economy. But there are divergent views on the extent to which it should be possible to create and enforce security rights over assets.

The book also:

- assesses the extent of the protection given to security rights under the main EU legal traditions;
- evaluates the policy reasons behind protection;
- elaborates whether, and to what extent, this protection also applies in the context of insolvency proceedings affecting the debtor;
- assesses whether, and under what conditions, security rights created prior to the institution of insolvency proceedings can be set aside in those proceedings;

Moreover, it considers the need for further European harmonisation.

The first part of the book expounds common themes and ideas and suggests possible law reform measures. The project team as a whole has contributed to this part which considers the extent to which the relevant law in the EU countries under review measures up against international benchmarks such as the World Bank Doing Business ‘getting credit’ and ‘resolving insolvency’ indicators and the UNCITRAL Legislative Guides on Secured Transactions and Insolvency. It asks whether there is any pressing need for reform at the national or EU level in light of these international benchmarks and whether reform is a realistic and achievable goal. Finally, it considers what form any reform measures might take. The focus is very much on the business debtor and it does not consider possible measures of consumer protection that may be appropriate in particular instances.

The first part of the book is followed by a second part containing chapters that address Germanic legal systems, the Common Law, Roman legal systems and Central and Eastern European legal systems. It should be noted that the book is based on reports submitted to the European Commission on 1 May 2016, although in some cases it has been possible to take into account developments after that date, such as changes to Italian law.

In the course of the project and in the writing of the book we have incurred many debts, not least to members of our International Advisory board and to those who spoke at the three international conferences that we organised as part of the project – London (May 2015), Erice (Trapani) in Italy (November 2015), and Santiago de Compostela (April 2016).

Those to whom we are indebted – in no particular order – include Lina Aleknaite-van der Molen (Kazimieras Simonavicius University, Vilnius, Lithuania); Paul Beaumont (University of Aberdeen, UK); Maya Boureghda Chebeane (JURISMED, Tunis); Catherine Bridge (European Bank for Reconstruction and Development); Michael Bridge (University College London); John Briggs (South Square Chambers, London); Richard Calnan (Norton Rose Fulbright LLP); Reinhard Dammann (Clifford Chance, Paris); Eric Dirix (Leuven); Ian Fletcher (University College London); Francisco Garcimartín Alférez (UAM, Spain), Anna Gardella (European Banking Authority); Robert van Galen (INSOL Europe); Louise Gullifer (University of Oxford); Santiago Hurtado Iglesias (Deloitte Abogados); Krzysztof Kaźmierczyk (Dentons, Poland); Andrew Keay (University of Leeds); Lisa Linklater (Exchange Chambers); Karolina Lyczkowska (DLA Piper, Spain); Jennifer Marshall (Allen & Overy LLP); Irit Mevorach (University of Nottingham); Karim Mouttaki (Mouttaki and Partners, Casablanca); Federico Mucciarelli (SOAS University of London, and University of Modena e Reggio Emilia); Paul Omar (Nottingham Trent University, UK); Jacinto José Pérez Benitez (High Court Pontevedra, Spain); Françoise Pérochon (Université de Montpellier, France); Juana Pulgar Esquerra (UCM, Spain); Magda Raczynska (University College London); Wolf-Georg Ringe (Copenhagen Business School, Denmark); Teresa Rodríguez de las Heras Ballell (UC3M, Spain); Felix Steffek (University of Cambridge); Andrew Steven (Scottish Law Commission); Heinz Vallender (Judge, Cologne); and Anna Veneziano (UNIDROIT). We apologise for any inadvertent omissions.

We would especially like to thank the overall project administrator, Alexandra Braithwaite, who is based at the University of Leeds, and her colleagues in the partner universities. We are also grateful for the tremendous support from our staff, especially Philipp Hartmann (University of Hamburg), who contributed significantly to the success of our project.

On a more personal note, Gerard McCormack would like to thank Presy, Amelia and Anthony. Reinhard Bork is grateful for the unlimited support from Nicole, Julius and Moritz. Laura Carballo Piñeiro is indebted to Manuel, Sara and Pepe for their care and patience. Marta Carballo Fidalgo sends her love to her sister Pili. Renato Mangano owes much to Giovanna for her encouragement. Tibor Tajti wants to thank for their support István Mándoki and Gergely Kovács (public notaries) and his doctoral students Catalin Stănescu, Virág Ilona Blazsek and Patricia Živković, as well as Éva Vas and the staff of the CEU library.

QUESTIONNAIRE

A. Creation of Security Rights

Question 1: In general terms, to what extent is it possible in your legal system to create security rights (rights in rem) over assets?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	176
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	318
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	422
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	589

Question 2: Is it possible to create security rights over all assets of the debtor?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	185
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	326
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	454
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	593

Question 3: Is it possible to create security rights over assets not yet owned by the debtor at the time of the creation of the security interest?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	189
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	333
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	460
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	595

Question 4: Is it possible to create security rights over assets that are not yet in existence at the time of the execution of the security agreement?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	204
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	335
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	464
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	595

Question 5: Is it possible to have a ‘global security agreement’, i.e. covering all assets of the debtor?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	210
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	335
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	468

Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	596
---	-----

Question 6: In general terms, what are the formalities in your legal system for the creation of a security interest over assets?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	212
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	335
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	472
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	599

Question 7: Do the rules for the creation of security rights vary depending on the nature of the asset in question?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	213
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	335
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	477
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	604

B. Enforcement of Security Rights

Question 8: To what extent is it possible for the secured party to enforce the security without having to use formal court procedures?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	217
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	337
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	480
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	615

Question 9: Is the secured party affected by a ‘stay’ on the enforcement of security rights if the debtor enters insolvency proceedings?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	225
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	348
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	485
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	626

Question 10: Can the secured party apply to have any stay lifted?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	237
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	352
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	500
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	632

Question 11: Under what circumstances can the stay be lifted?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	237
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	352

Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	504
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	632
Question 12: In insolvency proceedings, can an insolvency practitioner (IP) ‘enforce’ the security, i.e. realise the secured assets, without the consent of the secured party?
Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	239
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	355
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	505
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	635
Question 13: Are there any conditions that must be satisfied before an IP may ‘enforce’ the security?
Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	241
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	355
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	509
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	637
Question 14: Do the rules or conditions differ depending on the nature of the insolvency proceedings in question?
Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	245
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	357
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	512
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	638
Question 15: Is a secured party liable to pay the general costs, i.e. costs apart from those incurred in connection with the realisation of security, of insolvency proceedings affecting the debtor?
Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	246
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	358
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	515
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	640
Question 16: Is the secured party liable to ‘set aside’ any portion of the amount realised from the enforcement of security for the benefit of (a) preferential or (b) unsecured creditors of the debtor?
Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	248
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	360
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	516
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	642

Question 17: Can the secured party be bound against its wishes by a restructuring plan that negatively affects either the secured debt or the enforcement of the security interest?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	248
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	363
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	519
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	644

Question 18: Can an under-secured creditor claim from the insolvency estate in respect of any deficiency arising as a result of the enforcement of the security?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	251
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	368
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	525
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	648

C. Registration of Security Rights

Question 19: To what extent must security rights over assets be publicised by registration or filing to ensure the effectiveness of the security interest over parties other than the debtor and in the event of insolvency proceedings?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	253
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	369
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	526
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	649

Question 20: Can you describe briefly the nature of the filing or registration system and whether it is publicly accessible?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	257
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	371
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	529
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	655

Question 21: To what extent does ‘possession’ or control of the secured assets serve as an alternative method to registration or filing in ensuring third party effectiveness of the security interest?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	261
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	375
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	534
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	657

D. Plurality of Security Rights

Question 22: Is it possible to have more than one set of security rights (security interest) over the same asset?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	261
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	381
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	536
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	659

Question 23: What are the rules for determining priority between competing security interests in the same property?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	265
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	381
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	537
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	660

Question 24: Are there special rules privileging the position of an acquisition financier, i.e. a secured party whose advance of funds funded the acquisition of a particular asset and who may be in a priority competition with an earlier general creditor whose security interest extends to all assets of the debtor whenever acquired?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	268
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	390
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	542
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	662

E. Quasi-Security Agreements

Question 25: Does your legal system have any rules equating the treatment, in whole or in part, of security interest and ‘quasi-security’ agreements, i.e. agreements that in legal terms do not involve the creation of security interests but have many of the same economic consequences? Examples of quasi-security include the factoring or sale of receivables and finance leases, hire-purchase agreements and retention of title clauses in sale of goods contracts.

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	270
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	394
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	545
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	664

F. Transactional Avoidance

Question 26: Are there rules in your legal system that operate once the debtor enters insolvency proceedings and that provide for the invalidation of transactions entered into by the debtor prior to the commencement of the insolvency proceedings?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	283
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	402
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	554
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	670

Question 27: Do these transactional avoidance rules catch security and quasi-security type transactions?

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	284
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	403
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	558
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	672

Question 28: If so, describe briefly these rules highlighting in particular (a) the rationale for the rules; (b) the conditions for the application of the rules; (c) the length of the ‘suspect period’; (d) whether the rules apply to transactions with a cross-border element; (e) whether the rules operate more stringently in respect of transactions that favour parties who are connected to the debtor; and (f) any defences that may be availed of by a counterparty to the transaction, i.e. the defendant in an avoidance action.

Germanic Legal System – Germany and Austria	285
Common Law System – England and the Republic of Ireland	404
Roman Legal System – Spain, Italy and France	559
Central and Eastern European Systems – Hungary, Poland and Lithuania	674
