ENERGY LAW RESEARCH FORUM

Established in 2007 by Kim Talus (UEF Law School), Michaël Hunt and Henrik Bjornebye (University of Oslo), the Energy Law Research Forum (ELRF) brings together researchers in energy law from leading European universities. Our objective is to promote the work of energy law and policy researchers as well as to establish a knowledge community through which the latest legal issues in the energy sector can be shared and debated.

The key component of the ELRF cooperation is a book series covering a range of topics in the area of energy law and policy, offering its members the opportunity to participate actively in this interesting project. Besides its deep interest in the work of its members, the ELRF is always keen to hear from individuals who have a passion for the subject of energy law.

ELRF welcomes contributions from political scientists, economists or environmentalists. Since these fields of research are interrelated, our understanding of law can only be deepened through the analysis of other fundamental energy-related questions. Hopefully, this endeavour will lead to the creation of a rich research community that will benefit all those with an interest in the legal or political agenda that influences developments in the energy sector.
